GUEST SPEAKERS:

Suffolk County Comptroller John M. Kennedy, Jr. gave an overview of changes made during the last year with merger of the County Comptroller and Treasurer's positions. He indicated a salary savings of one million dollars. Efforts in progress include quicker processing of delinquent property taxes; replacement of old computers with updated technology operations; bond-indebted interest savings through shorter term, lower interest; upgrading financial management with electronic fund transfer; shrinking the size of acquisitions and departments; enforcement of the Hotel-Motel tax that supports parks, historic sites, and tourism; and the Comptrollers Fraud Hotline. Complaint Forms for the Fraud Hotline were provided to Civic members.

A question and answer period followed. Members raised questions about Section 8 Housing issues, county bond ratings, collection of delinquent property taxes, "zombie" homes, and the top areas the Comptroller felt might yield additional savings. Mr. Kennedy identified reduced overtime, restricted supplies procurement, better payment system, salaries and economic development as areas for savings.
